To Our Patients,

One of the surprising things about a Rhinoplasty practice is that it is seasonal. And we are quickly approaching the busiest “surgery season” of the year. Throughout the year, during a “normal” week, I will perform six to eight Rhinoplasty surgeries. However, in the summer and during the November/December holiday season, I will perform twelve to fourteen surgeries a week. The demand for operative time exceeds availability due to the large number of patients requesting surgery during their vacations and school holidays.

Therefore, we will need your help to find the ideal time to schedule your surgery. The following guidelines will be of value:

- Try to plan in advance for surgery and have several possible surgery dates to choose from. First, select a week that works for you and then a specific day. We divide our operative schedule into Monday/Tuesday and Thursday/Friday. We will do everything possible to get you within the two day period that you want.
- Please realize that last minute changes in your surgery date may be impossible. However, there is always a possibility of a cancellation and we will try to add extra operating time, but you must book early to be assured of getting the dates you want.
- Please also have in mind that you will need to arrange for someone to drive you home from surgery and care for you for a full 24 hours after surgery. You can expect to take a full week off from work or school for your recovery period.

Our goal is to help you schedule your appointments and have a wonderful experience throughout the perioperative period. Should you have any questions or concerns, please don't hesitate to call us.

Sincerely,

Dr. Rollin K. Daniel and Staff
